Miscellaneous Taxation Ruling

The New Tax System: the meaning of entity carrying on an enterprise for the purposes of entitlement to an Australian Business Number (ABN)

Miscellaneous Taxation Ruling MT 2000/1 is withdrawn with effect from today. It is replaced by Miscellaneous Taxation Ruling MT 2006/1.

Reason for Withdrawal

1. The issues covered by MT 2000/1 are now covered in a new Ruling MT 2006/1 which provides assistance in determining the entitlement to an ABN for entities. In doing this, MT 2006/1 considers the meaning of the certain key words and phrases used to define:
  - a. an entity; and
  - b. an enterprise.
2. Appendix A to this withdrawal notice contains a table which compares the paragraphs of MT 2006/1 with the paragraphs in MT 2005/D1 and MT 2000/1. A brief explanation of the change is provided.

What this Ruling is about	1, 3-5, 85	1-5	1-6	No substantial changes from MT 2001/1.
Date of effect	6	6	7
Background - Policy intent - The registration process	2, 7	7-15	8-16	This section explains the policy behind the ABN as well as providing a brief explanation of the registration process.
Definitions - Entity - Enterprise	No equivalent	16-18	17-20	A new explanation of the registration process has been included.  It explains that the terms 'entity' and 'enterprise' are defined in section 41 of the ABN Act <sup>1</sup> to have the meaning of these terms as defined in the GST Act. <sup>2</sup>
Entitlement to an ABN	8, 55	19-23	21-25	Introductory paragraphs.
What is an entity for ABN purposes? - Individual - Body corporate - Corporation sole - Body politic - Partnership	9, 32-44	24-41	26-43	The discussion of the terms 'body corporate', 'corporation sole' and 'body politic' is now divided into separate sections. It also expands upon the information on partnerships to explain that the term is wider than that at general law.

Who is carrying on an enterprise? -Groups of entities - Partnership - Agency - Religious Practitioner - Employee  Examples 7 and 8	No equivalent      No equivalent	92-109      Examples 7 and 8	102-119      Examples 7 and 8	This new section explains that enterprise activities may be done by more than one entity. The explanation discusses situations involving consolidated groups, partnerships, agencies, religious practitioners and employees.  New examples 7 and 8 are included to illustrate some of the principles involved.
When is an enterprise being carried on?   Commencement of an enterprise   Examples 9-12	15   No equivalent   No equivalent	110-111   112-120   Examples 9-12	120-121   122-131   Examples 9-12	Explains what activities are considered to be activities done in the course of the commencement of an enterprise. If the activities have the character of those ordinarily undertaken to commence an enterprise they will be accepted as falling within the statutory definition.  New examples illustrate the principles concerned.
Termination of an enterprise   Example 13	No equivalent   No equivalent	129-135   Example 13	140-147   Example 13	The section also explains that an enterprise terminates when the activities related to that enterprise cease. Ordinarily, that occurs when all assets are disposed of or converted to another purpose or use and all obligations satisfied. New example to illustrate the principles.

Activities done on a small scale that do not amount to an enterprise	No equivalent	175	186	Explains that it would be difficult to conclude that activities are an enterprise where they are of a very small size and scale, are carried on in an ad hoc manner, and there is little repetition or regularity. The exclusion at paragraph 9-20(2)(a) of the GST Act does not apply as the first requirement of being in the form of a business has not been satisfied.

In that case it was decided that a body corporate was carrying on an enterprise as its activities were done in a businesslike manner
In the form of an adventure or concern in the nature of trade	24, 64-67, 74	220-228	233-242	New explanation inserted advising that Australian case law is the starting point for understanding this concept, and that the term is similar to the income tax term 'profit making undertaking or scheme'.  Also advised that in a practical sense that the term 'in the form of an adventure or concern in the nature of trade' is not any wider than 'an adventure or concern in the nature of trade'.
Characteristics of trade, including the badges of trade	68	229-232	243-246	The section explains that 'trade' takes its ordinary meaning. It also includes a discussion of the badges of trade (which were developed from UK case law) as they provide practical guidance on what activities amount to trade.

On a regular or continuous basis, in the form of a lease, licence or other grant of an interest in property	84, 87-88	289-291	303-305	Provides a more detailed explanation of why the phrase 'in the form of' on a practical level does not broaden the meaning of 'lease, licence or other grant of an interest property'.  New discussion is included to explain when a gratuitous lease, licence or other grant of an interest in property made by an individual or a partnership where all or most of the partners are individuals will amount to an enterprise. In these circumstances the lease would need to have a commercial basis underlying it.
