

TR 93/D39 - Income tax: implications of the decision in Coles Myer Finance Ltd v. FC of T for the timing of deductions for prepaid expenses

This cover sheet is provided for information only. It does not form part of TR 93/D39 - Income tax: implications of the decision in Coles Myer Finance Ltd v. FC of T for the timing of deductions for prepaid expenses

This document has been finalised by TR 94/25.

Draft Taxation Ruling

Income tax: implications of the decision in Coles Myer Finance Ltd v. FC of T for the timing of deductions for prepaid expenses

Draft Taxation Rulings (DTRs) represent the preliminary, though considered, views of the Australian Taxation Office.

DTRs may not be relied on by taxation officers, taxpayers and practitioners. It is only final Taxation Rulings which represent authoritative statements by the Australian Taxation Office of its stance on the particular matters covered in the Ruling.

contents	para
What this Ruling is about	1
Ruling	3
Definition	4
Date of effect	5
Explanations	6

What this Ruling is about

1. This Ruling considers whether the decision in Coles Myer Finance Ltd v. FC of T 93 ATC 4214; (1993) 25 ATR 95, requires prepaid expenses to be apportioned over the period to which they relate.

2. This Ruling does not consider whether a prepaid expense is deductible under subsection 51(1), but merely the timing of a deduction. Nor does this Ruling deal with the deductibility of so called 'prepaid discount' expenses, which will be the subject of a separate Ruling.

Ruling

3. If, prior to the High Court's decision in Coles Myer Finance a prepaid expense was considered deductible, under subsection 51(1) of the Income Tax Assessment Act 1936, it will continue to be treated as fully deductible, under that subsection, in the income year in which the payment is made. However, if the prepayment is in respect of a thing which will not be wholly done within 13 months it may be necessary to apportion the expense under section 82KZM.

TR 93/D39

Definition

4. In this Ruling a prepayment or a prepaid expense means a payment which extinguishes an existing or future liability, to the extent that the payment is:

- (a) in respect of goods and services to be provided, in full or in part, on or after the date the payment is made; and
- (b) on revenue account.

Date of effect

5. This Ruling applies to years commencing both before and after its date of issue. However, the Ruling does not apply to taxpayers to the extent that it conflicts with the terms of a settlement of a dispute agreed to before the date of issue of the Ruling (see paragraphs 21 and 22 of Taxation Ruling TR 92/20).

Explanations

6. The joint majority judgment in Coles Myer Finance could possibly be read as applying to all losses and outgoings including prepayments, and that, consequently, such losses and outgoings should be apportioned over the years to which they are properly referable (ATC 4220; ATR 103).

7. However, the question of prepayments was not argued before the High Court nor did the joint judgment specifically deal with either the question or the long line of High Court and Federal Court decisions specifically on prepayments. That line of authority generally accepts that a prepaid expense which is on revenue account is fully deductible in the year in which the payment is made. For example, see Emu Bay Railway Co Ltd v. FC of T 71 CLR 596 per Latham CJ's at 606; Foxwood (Tolga) Pty Ltd v. FC of T 80 ATC 4096, per Deane J at 4100; (1980) 10 ATR 676 at 680; FC of T v. Ilbery 81 ATC 4661; (1981) 12 ATR 563; Alloyweld Pty Ltd v. FC of T 84 ATC 4328; (1984) 15 ATR 614; FC of T v. Lau 84 ATC 4929; (1984) 16 ATR 55; FC of T v. Solling & Pepper 85 ATC 4518; (1985) 16 ATR 753; FC of T v. Creer 86 ATC 4318; (1986) 17 ATR 548; FC of T v. Gwynvill Properties Pty Ltd 86 ATC 4512; (1986) 17 ATR 844.

8. As was unanimously stated by the Full Federal Court in FC of T v. Raymor (NSW) Pty Ltd 90 ATC 4461 at 4467; (1990) 21 ATR 458 at 464:

'A mere payment made in the absence of an obligation to make it might well not, in the circumstances of a particular case, be an outgoing incurred, but there is no case to which counsel for the Commissioner could refer us or which our researches have been able to locate where it has been held that an outgoing has been incurred in a year later than the year where the liability arose and was discharged. Nor would we expect such a case to exist'. (emphasis added)

9. In FC of T v. Ilbery 81 ATC 4661; (1981) 12 ATR 563; Toohey J, with whom the other two judges agreed, stated (at ATC 4666; ATR 569), after referring to Latham CJ's dictum in Emu Bay Railway Co, Ltd v. FC of T 71 CLR 596 at 606, that:

'The dictum takes for granted that expenditure actually made is an outgoing incurred, as do dicta in a number of other cases. And the prepayment of interest was an outgoing incurred in the relevant tax year'.

In that case the prepayment was voluntary in the sense that the taxpayer was under no legal obligation to make the payment in the year in which it was actually made.

10. In our view nothing in the joint judgment of the High Court in Coles Myer Finance indicates that they intended to overturn the existing interpretation of the law governing the deductibility of prepayments under subsection 51(1). The High Court in Coles Myer Finance was primarily concerned with the situation of a liability which came into existence in one year and was not discharged until a subsequent year. They stated (ATC 4222; ATR 105) that:

'The relevance of the present existence of a legal liability on the part of the taxpayer to meet the bills and notes at a future date is that it establishes that the taxpayer has "incurred" in the year of income an obligation to pay an amount which gives rise to a net loss or outgoing, being the recurrent cost of acquiring working or circulating capital. But there remains the question: how much of that net loss or outgoing is referable to the year of income' (emphasis added).

They also stated (ATC 4222; ATR 105) that:

'Although the legal liability to pay is incurred in the year of income, the amount in question is not payable until the subsequent year of income and, more importantly, the net loss or outgoing represents the cost of acquiring funds which the taxpayer puts to profitable advantage in both years of income' (emphasis added).

TR 93/D39

page 4 of 4

FOI status draft only - for comment

11. The fact that the liability was not to be met until a future year was also of concern to the Court in its reference to the distortionary effects of such a situation (ATC 4222; ATR 105).

12. In the case of a prepayment, the liability is either voluntary or is discharged by the payment and as such does not continue into a new income tax year.

13. For these reasons we believe that Coles Myer Finance was concerned with factual circumstance fundamentally different from those of a prepayment, which should remain to be considered in accordance with the case law directly on point.

Commissioner of Taxation

2 September 1993

ISSN 1039 - 0731

ATO references

NO 93/4814-0
BONot previously released to the public in draft form

Price $0.40

FOI index detail
reference numbersubject references

- allowable deductions
- prepayments
- prepaid expenses
- payments
- deductions

legislative references

- ITAA 51(1)

case references

- Coles Myer Finance v. FC of T
93 ATC 4214; (1993) 25 ATR 95
- Emu Bay Railway Co Ltd v. FC of T
71 CLR 596
- Foxwood (Tolga) Pty Ltd v. FC of T
80 ATC 4096; (1980) 10 ATR 676
- FC of T v. Ilbery 81 ATC 4661;
(1981) 12 ATR 563
- Alloyweld Pty Ltd v. FC of T
84 ATC 4328; (1984) 15 ATR 614
- FC of T v. Lau 84 ATC 4929;
(1984) 16 ATR 55
- FC of T v. Solling & Pepper
85 ATC 4518; (1985) 16 ATR 753
- FC of T v. Creer 86 ATC 4318;
(1986) 17 ATR 548
- FC of T v. Gwynvill Properties Pty
Ltd 86 ATC 4512;
(1986) 17 ATR 844
- FC of T v. Raymor (NSW) Pty Ltd
90 ATC 4461; (1990) 21 ATR 458